At length, not coming out of her distraught state by degrees but in an instant, Miss Havisham said, "Let me see you two play cards; why have you not begus?" With that, we returned to her room, and sat down as before; I was beggared as before; and again, as before Miss Havisham watched us all the time, directed my attention to Estella's beauty, and made me notice it the more by trying her jewels on Estella, for her part, like wise treated me as before; except that she did not condescend to speak. When we had played some half dozen games a day was appointed for my return, and I was taken down into the yard to be fed in the former dog-like manner. It is not much to the purpose whether a gate in that garden wall which I had scrambled up to peep over on the last occasion was, on that last occasion open or shut. Enough that I saw no gate than, and that I saw one now. As it stood open, and as I knew that Estella had lat the visitors out—for she had returned with the keys in her hand—I strolled into the garden and stooled all over it. It was quite a wilderness, and there were old melon-frames and cucumber-frames in it, which soemed in their decline to have produced a spintaneous growth of feeble attempts at pieces of old hate and boots, with now and then a weedy off-shoot into the bhouses of a battered saucepan. When I had exhausted the garden, and a green house with nothing in it but a fallen down grapevine and some bottles, I found myself in the dismal corner upon which I had looked out of the window. Never questioning for a moment that the house was now empty, I looked in at another window, and found myself, to my great surprise, exchanging a broad stare with a pale young gentleman with red eyelids and very light hair.

HIBBARD'S WILD CHERRY BITTERS. This is more palabab'e than the best Port Wine, and answer in every respect a better purpose. For the sick, the weak, debilitated, convalescent soldiers, the best wines are not so useful as the WILD CHERRY BITTERS. One hespital at Washington has ordered some for heir patients, and all should do so, in all branches of the service on land or sea.

The WILD CHERRY BITTERS is an article of The WILD CHERRY BITTERS is an article or great value and importance, combining the virtues of a tonic, with the power of calming irritation and diminishing nervous excitability. The benefits derived from its use, by persons afflicted with various disassachow that it has a power over more than one of the diseases of human life; and although there is a unanimity of action, yet there appears from the certifinimity of action, yet there appears from the certifi-cates following, a diversity in its results; a variety of cures. The reason is, that this preparation of WILD CHERRY, has a specific and certain action upon the Liver and other digestive organs; and that the want of action of the Liver is generally the cause of dis-same, or one of its first symptoms, whether it be the Fever arising from the want of proper biliary secre-ion, functional derangement, or organic disease in other case, the BITTERS are a safe and certain remedy; or whether the disease arises from su iden ex-citement, depression of spirity, or the faintness and lassitude, the use of the Bitters is judicious, and will

mirely remove the cause that protrasts the disease.
This has been satisfactorily shown by the experimes of hundreds.
A single dose has saved life, and by timely using, it has prevented long and aggravated diseases. This preparation is a certain sedative, allaying all ner yous excitability, and calming nervous irritation, pa'phation of the heart, dizziness of the head, faint-ness; and all diseases arising from a sympathetic af-fection of the stomach. are entirely relieved by a very few does of these Bitters.

It is also a UNIVERSAL TONIO unloading the Liver, stimulating the Secreting Organs, and areusing into healthy action all the digestive apparatus, overcoming langor, drowslows and lassitude, and imparting life and energy to the whole system.

This PREPARATION OF WILD CREEKY is happly adapted to the wants of the Medical Faculty, and it has already become a favorite remedy with many Medical Practitioners.

One physician speaks as follows, and scores have riven the strongest testimonials, given the strongest testimomata.

Mr. R. F. Hinbard,

Dear Sir,—I have examined the medicine which you have prepared, viz: Wild Cherry Bitters, and which you recommend to the public as a remedy for NERVOUS WEAKNESS and GENERAL DEBILITY. It is an excellent article, well adapted to afford relief in such cases, as well as to promote afford relief in such cases, as well as to promote general health.

WILD CHERRY (Prinus Firefinians) has long been regarded by the Profession as the most valuable among our indigenous remedies. It unites the tonic among our indigenous remease. It mines the tonic power with the sedative, and therefore strengthens and invigorates the system, ealming Irritation and tim intaking Mervees Excitability. It is recommend-ed as being admirably calculated to afford great re-lief in a DEBULITATED condition of the stomach, or of the system at large, especially when this debility is united with general or local irritation. Dr. Eherie it arregards excellent to be given in the Hectic Fe-ver or Serofula and Consumption. It is particularly useful in the General Debility which often follows inflammtory diseases. It has also been used to advantage, and found to be well adapted to many cases of DYSPEPSIA. Also successful in INTERMIT-

CARMINATIVE SALVE.

CARMINATIVE SALVE.

This salve is one of those excellent things which no family should fail to keep always on hand. For Folons, Blies, Fainful Ulcore, Carbuneles, or Anthrax, teammenty called Anth-banya, Ague in the breast and face, Ear-ache, Burns, Scales and Ethermatic Pains of all tises. It is a pure Specific, it aliays the pain at once, by stimulating the cuticle and prometting lecal pergapiration. The first application gives immediate relief. It has been for the last thirty years before the public, and in reputation and use is daily increasing. All we sak is a tr'al, for any of those painful diseases, and we are sure that you will realize all we promise for it.

All these are as useful for the family as the camp, and should be in every house.
